Empathy Map

Create an empathy map to understand your customer/user from four perspectives - what they Say, Think, Do, and Feel - in relation to the problem your project addresses. This helps the team build a customer-centric solution.

SAYS • “I have too many notes and too little time before the exam.” • “Can someone summarize this chapter for me?” • “I wish I had practice questions for this topic.” • “I don't know where to start studying.”	THINKS • Am I studying the right things? • Will I finish the syllabus in time? • Making my own flashcards and quizzes takes too long. • Can I trust AI-generated answers to be accurate?
STUDENT (PERSON A NAME) (Role / User Type: College Student)
DOES • Reads long PDFs and lecture notes repeatedly • Copies key points into notes by hand • Searches online for summaries and question banks • Uploads notes to Learnmate and reviews the summary, flashcards and quiz	FEELS • Overwhelmed by the volume of material • Anxious and unprepared before exams • Unmotivated without a clear plan • Relieved and confident once the material is organized
